THIS WEEK'S REFLECTION

HAPPY NEW YEAR EVERYONE!

I wonder what this year holds for us all? I wonder what we hope for, both for our world and for our everyday, as with every year, things will change and things will come and go. We will experience things that are different that will challenge and / or encourage us. This Saturday it feels very fitting, that I shall be leading the service at St Walburga's Church as part of the pulpit swap that takes place as part of the international prayers for Christian Unity across denominations and the world. (Online daily prayers are available on this webpage <https://ctbi.org.uk/resources/week-of-prayer-for-christian-unity-2026/>). I have been asked a number of questions about how I want the service run - questions that I had never thought about for our service - so very interesting and honestly a little daunting!

But that is it - when we face things that are different or are out of our comfort zone, we may feel fear, anxiety - refuse to face them, but actually what I keep on learning is that when we 'face the fear and do it anyway' we grow and learn things about ourselves that are unexpected and good.

This year will be a time when we will be getting to know our brothers and sisters from St Paul's and Christchurch better, looking at the different ways in which we can support one another and provide opportunities for more people to come to know the love of God, especially as we plan our time away together in July. I do so hope as many of you can come away, as this is a very important time for us to think about how we will change shape as a parish.

So this year, I urge that we all consider how we MIX IT UP! Perhaps we might like to try a service we have never attended before. Go to St Paul's or Christchurch or a Wednesday communion and then talk about what it felt like. What you liked or disliked. Thank God for differences, thank God for what we have.

 When things get mixed up, it can get messy, some things need to be broken, so as we look forward we need to be kind to one another. Be compassionate and understanding and gentle with each other. We are part of a family and won't always get things right, but let's pray that as God leads us, we will all grow richer in our faith and our delight in God. After all as it says in John 15:16 "You did not choose me, but I chose you and appointed you so that you might go and bear fruit—fruit that will last—and so that whatever you ask in my name the Father will give you. <sup>17</sup> This is my command: Love each other."

So when someone new comes into the service and does something strange or even annoying, welcome them with grace, thank God for their joining us, ask them their names and invite them to stay for coffee or say you hope to see them at next week's service. Discipleship is a life long process so we can encourage gently and slowly if those habits really are too unacceptable, or perhaps we may find we become more tolerant! Blessings everyone.
